ISOLATIONIST BLOC ATTACKS AID TO ALLIES

Move to Halt Trade-in Plan of Releasing Munitions For Use In War.

'HYPOCRISY' CHARGED

Observers Believe Campaign Against Military Move Doomed to Failure.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Congressional isolationists moved today to block President Roosevelt's "trade in" program of furnishing military equipment to the Allies But many observers felt that their campaign was foredoomed to failure.

Sen. D Worth Clark, (D Ida.,) said he plans to call a meeting of senate and house isolationists on Monday to organize a bloc opposed to the program

The president's plan, he said, represents "direct intervention" in the European war and is a "step toward sending American boys abroad."

Sen. Rush D Holt, (D., W. Va.,) charged the plan for aiding the Allies is "hypocrisy and back door strategy" and asserted that "some persons in the administration are 'hell bent' to get us involved in this war."

The program to which the isolationists object calls for the army and navy to turn back to manufacturers about 340 warplanes and huge stocks of old guns and amunition. The manufacturers will resell them to the Allies, and credit the proceeds of the sales to future government purchases of more modern, up-to-date materials.

Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference yesterday that he has authority to trade in airplanes and ammunitions on new purchases but that further legislation is needed to apply the system to the sale of guns.

Should this additional authority not be forthcoming, however, the administration is expected to make use of a 1920 statute permitting the army to sell surplus equipment—including guns—to friendly nations. In such a sale, the money would be turned over to the general treasury funds

The army has completed arrangements under which the Unit-

British Marine Starts Swimming English Channel

LONDON—(AP)—How a British marine swam eight of the 21 miles between Calais and Dover and was just "getting into my stride" when he was picked up by a small ship ferrying soldiers home from Flanders was told today by Gilbert Rowe, of the Queen Victoria Rifles, one of the few surviving defenders of Calais.

Rowe said the marine seemed quite fresh when pulled aboard the ship.

"His first remark was 'sure you have enough room for me'?"

Only 24 people are on record as swimming the English channel.

'Never Too Old to Serve,' Says Rev. Millar, Honored by Masons on His 100th Birthday

Tributes Given 'Daddy' Who Sings a Scotch Song In Return.

By JANE WILLIAMS

Just as surely as two and two make four, so do service, love of fellow man and an abiding faith in God add up to 100.

This was the theme of the unusual service last night at Masonic Temple when several hundred men and women gathered to honor Rev. David B. Millar on his 100th birthday anniversary

The gentle little Scotch dominie achieved one of the ambitions closest to his heart last night when he attended the meeting of Venus Lodge, 152, F and A. M. on his 100th birthday He had expressed that wish last year when he was 99, and so eagerly did he plan on it that lodge officials made application to national Masonic authorities to suspend rules in order to hold their regular meeting at the Millar home in case his fragile health would not permit his attending services at the Temple

This was not necessary, however, for he was in his accustomed place last night as chaplain, and his voice rang strong and clear as he invoked the blessings and mercy of a God he has served so faithfully for so long.

After the lodge meeting he was taken downstairs to the assembly room where members of all Masonic bodies and Eastern Star gathered to honor him.

The rostrum was banked with blue and white flowers and a seat of honor in the midst of the flowers provided a fitting background for the white haired man who in 33 years of living in Mansfield has made himself one of the best loved and most revered of all citizens.

He said last night that he owed his long years to the men and women of the community who had permitted him to serve them. He said that when he was asked to join the Masonic lodge in 1911, he was 71 years old and he was afraid then that he was too old to be permitted to take an active part in the work. But that same year he was appointed chaplain and he has served continuously in that capacity. He had also served as chaplain of Ruth chapter, Eastern Star for 11 years and for six as its Patron

"I found," he said happily, "that one is never too old to serve, even though the service may be a small one."

Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of First Lutheran church, paid high tribute to the centenarian who, he said, must stand as an inspiration to all elderly people and to all persons growing old. There were three factors, he said, which had contributed to Dr. Millar's longevity.

"He was always finding ways in which to be of service to others and he refused to be put on a shelf," Rev. Swoyer said, "he was intellectually active and mentally alert, keeping pace with the times; and lastly he had a simple faith in God which made for a deep contentment and an abundant spiritual life."

Attorney W. H Gifford, who was a member of the board of the Richland County Law library at the time "Daddy" Millar became law librarian, a position he held for 24 years and until he was 96 years old, told something of that service. He said that despite his years, Rev Millar had been an efficient librarian, that he frequently worked with attorneys on cases, and that by his sweetness of character, his gentle kindness and philosophy, he had exercised a tremendous influence on all who came in contact with him.

At the close of the services, which was presided over by A. Roger Oster, Worshipful Master, Rev. Millar was presented with a gift from Venus lodge. It was a silver certificate for $29,—a silver dollar for every year of his association with the lodge.

Carl Wolfarth, district deputy Grand Master and a past Grand Master of Venus lodge, made the presentation, and delighted the

ROME EXPECTS DUCE TO MOVE WITHIN WEEK

Action Predicted Thursday or Friday Night Followed By Duce's Announcement.

SEEK 'INDEPENDENCE'

Fascist Weekly Points Out Territorial Questions Must Be Decided.

(By Associated Press)

ROME — Italy's entrance into the war against Great Britain and France within a week was forecast today in usually well-informed sources.

These informants said Italian action probably would start on the night of June 13 or June 14—next Thursday or Friday—with an announcement by Premier Mussolini after Italy has moved.

This seemed to preclude the possibility of a speech by Il Duce Monday as rumored in Switzerland

"The Italian people are on the eve of a solemn event," declared Relazioni Internazionali, authoritative Fascist weekly, which, it said, will be a "war of supreme independence"

It echoed Mussolini's motto: "Better to live a day as a lion than a hundred years as a sheep"

For the sake of foreigners, the weekly said, it listed six reasons why Italy is going to war:

1. Italy has followed a peace policy for 18 years seeking to "balance positions, shorten distances and impose new, more humane political formulas.

2 France and England always have opposed Mussolini's policies.

3. When the "Italian people asked for land to work they were offered deserts."

4. "Everything Italian, in domestic policy as well as in the international field, has been ostentatiously undervalued by the French and English"

5. "Democratic Europe, which has deprecated the Italian people, can only be fought." The Italian people have reached the limit of their patience. . . . This war must solve territorial questions for the Italian people which are Nice, Corsica, Tunisia and Jibuti."

6. "The life of the Italian people is subject to French and English control. Italy must insure her independence on the sea."

Commercial air service to foreign destinations was curtailed as delays in shipping schedules

Nazis Reported 53 Miles from French Capital

Paris Announces Strategic Withdrawal To Straightened Front; Declares Enemy Drive Made Entirely By Mechanized Units.

BULLETIN

PARIS — (INS) — Factories in the suburbs of Berlin were bombed by French naval planes last night, the French admiralty announced today. All the participating planes returned safely, the announcement said. It was the first time that war from the skies had descended on the German capital itself.

(By Associated Press)

PARIS — Advanced German tank detachments drove a deep spearhead into the western flank of the redrawn Weygand line today and reached a point approximately 12 miles beyond the upper reaches of the Bresle river in their smash toward Le Havre.

At the same time the war ministry revealed for the first time that the Nazi thrust at the center of the French defenses, guarding the broad Oise river valley that leads to Paris, had carried to Carlepont, only 53 miles northeast of the capital, yesterday.

A French military spokesman said the western portion of the Weygand line, withdrawn altogether below the river Somme, now follows an almost straight line from the upper Bresle to the region south of Ham before joining the Oise and Aisne defenses.

The high command admitted the Nazi penetration in the west, but said the Weygand line, straightened by strategic withdrawals from advance positions yesterday, was holding "on all the rest of the front."

The spokesman said the German column which moved southward was composed only of tanks, and there was not a sign of supporting Nazi infantry.

French support groups moved in behind the German tanks immediately, the commentator reported, with "all necessary dispositions" taken to isolate the armored spearhead.

The high command communique stated the Germans had penetrated to "a point in the region of Forges-Les-Eaux," 12 miles south of the Bresle and only 25 miles northeast of Rouen. Rouen is 45 miles east of the important port of Le Havre.

These advanced Nazi units swung the German attack south and slightly west of the original Allied defense lines

DRAMATIC: Eye-Witness Tells About World's Wildest Battle

(Editor's Note—The following dramatic eye-witness story of "the wildest battle of all time" has just been received from Kenneth Downs, war correspondent of International News Service, who alone of all the correspondents with the French armies was permitted to go all the way up to the farthest fighting front.)

By KENNETH DOWNS

(INS Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES ON THE WESTERN FRONT—Hold, or die on the spot!

This is the resolution of the French armies on the Somme today as the wildest battle of all time rages

That is what they are doing.

They are holding in the face of an attack so madly violent as to defy description. Where they have not held—that is to say where German tanks have battered through over the bodies of their own dead—every Frenchman has been killed or wounded at his post.

I talked to a brilliant general staff captain who manned an anti-tank gun alone, with his aides as loaders, and destroyed five German tanks. His commanding officer told me that story as bombs crashed near us.

I heard the story of one battery of four 75's which destroyed forty tanks before the onrolling tide finally crushed out the last of this heroic crew.

I have been here for 24 hours During this time I have covered fifty miles of the front. I have not been out of my clothes and have been under an endless wave of German bombing planes

I have dug into bushes, ditches and haystacks as the strafers swept overhead with their murderous fire.

Impressions whirl through my head as I rush out these few words in time to catch an army courier to the Paris cable. But I shall

1,000 PLANES PER DAY SEEN

Ford Studies Fast Army Ship For Mass Production on Assembly Lines.

WASHINGTON—The army put one of its fastest pursuit planes at Henry Ford's disposal today to let him determine whether his mass production genius can get aerial fighters rolling off assembly lines at the amazing rate of 1,000 a day.

The sudden completion of arrangements to have the pursuit ship delivered to Ford engineers in Detroit Monday momentarily distracted defense program attention from the sharp cleavage of congressional opinion on President Roosevelt's applause for a newspaper editorial urging compulsory military training for the nation.

The announcement that a pursuit plane would be sent to Detroit was made by the war depart-

'Baby Brother' Returns, Joins Mansfield Kin After 37 Years

(Picture on Page 6)

When a police call came to the August Eilenfield home, 151 West Sixth street, at 3 a. m. yesterday morning, there was some apprehension. But almost immediately they learned that a "baby brother" who had left Mansfield 37 years ago had come home and had appealed to police to help find his family.

Today, two Mansfield brothers, August and William Eilenfield, said goodbye again to Edward, the youngest brother as he and his wife left for Buffalo, but on their return to Mansfield the latter part of the month, they will visit here for two weeks.

Edward, who is 55, dropped in on his brothers on a surprise visit, seeing them for the first time since 1902 when he left here to join the navy. He served 30 years in the navy, retiring eight years ago and making his home in San Diego, Calif.

The Eilenfield family came to Mansfield in 1893 from East Prussia, Germany. The parents, Mr. and Mrs Frederick Eilenfield, are dead. William, 66, resides at 301 East Fourth street, and has been a molder at the Humphryes Manufacturing plant for the past 37 years.

August, 57, is a city fireman at Station No. 2 on North Main street, and has been on the city staff for more than 19 years.

Edward became homesick to see

GET 200 PLANES

Allies to Obtain U. S. Ships Ordered By Sweden.

LONDON — (AP) — About 200 American airplanes which Sweden ordered last winter, are to be consigned to the Allies, chiefly to France, it was understood today.

It was reported that the American government had aproved the transfer because the planes, if shipped to Sweden, might fall into German hands.

MORE SHOWERS DUE TOMORROW

Weatherman Says Rains May Start Tonight; Blow Hits Farms Yesterday.

Mansfielders who plan on spending a day in the open tomorrow better take a tip from the weatherman who warns that there will be showers and thunder storms tonight and tomorrow.

Thunderstorms broke over the county yesterday, carrying considerable wind with them While trees bent beneath the onslaught early last evening, no damage was done here. In the northern part of the county, however, there was some small damage from wind.

More than an inch of rain has fallen in the past two days, with .35 on Thursday and .85 yesterday.

The storm yesterday broke the heat so that from a high of 86 yesterday afternoon, thermometers had dropped below 80 today and this noon stood at 78.

New Appeal Made for Special Legislature Session

23 CITIES IN OHIO LEAGUE URGE ACTION

Bricker Indicates Decision to Be Reached Over Week-End on Relief Question.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—A special session of the 93rd general assembly within 10 days appeared imminent today as Governor Bricker studied a fresh appeal from Ohio municipalities for additional state funds to aid needy and unemployed.

The request came from the League of Ohio Municipalities a few hours after the chief executive announced to newspaper men he would decide over the week-end whether to recall the lawmakers to take up relief and possibly other issues.

If a special session were called, Bricker said, it would be held before the Republican national convention, which starts June 24 in Philadelphia. House and senate leaders estimated the legislature would not have to remain in the capital more than a week.

Twenty-three cities were represented at the meeting of the league. At the conference, municipal officials estimated that an additional $2,500,000 in state funds would see them through the remainder of the year.

Bricker repeatedly has turned down requests for a special session for any purpose, but he indicated yesterday he was willing to call one in a relief survey he and his aides are completing convinced him one was necessary .

According to Lieut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, Republican members of the assembly are "primed" for such a move. He asserted that a questionnaire sent to 100 GOP legislators disclosed there were four issues they believed were vital enough to require their immediate consideration.

Herbert said those issues were:

1—Appropriation of additional relief funds.

2—Appropriation of additional funds to pay old age pensions to persons whose claims have been approved but who are on waiting lists because no money is available.

3—Passage of legislation to increase old age pension maximums to $40 per month, now permitted by federal law.

4—Passage of legislation to split the national and state tickets at the November election.

Bricker declined to comment on any question except that of relief. He admitted, however, that he had received numerous requests from Republican leaders throughout the state for immediate action on the ballot proposal.

In Columbus to attend the league session and to confer with Bricker on the election campaign, Mayor Harold H. Burton, of Cleveland, told newspaper men that Cleveland's relief situation was "unchanged."

Burton, who won the Republican U. S. senatorial nomination at the primary, said Cleveland would be in fair shape financially if the state supreme court, in a case now pending, held the city could issue $2,200,000 in delinquent tax bonds for relief purposes.

To date this year, the state has been paying about 40 per cent of the entire relief bill while the municipalities have taken care of the remainder. The state appropriation for relief for 1940 was $10,000,000.

You never can tell when the most dignified of men will break out into poetry. Usually the rank amateurs won't sign their names, which is why the poet of this week's Rotary Amplifier will go unhonored and unsung. The poem announces the Rotary Ladies Night party thusly: "Listen, dear members, and you shall hear of the Ladies' Night party that's now very near; Next Tuesday night at the stroke of seven, (The calendar says its June the eleventh), Fun, entertainment and prizes galore The minute you walk through the Country club door." Which gives you an idea of what a few days of spring will do.

TAKE WITNESS CHAIR MONDAY FOR DEFENSE

Donald Slater Admits Hitting Telegrapher Because of Threat on Life.

(By United Press)

BELLEFONTAINE—Mrs. Minnie Jenkins, 47, and Merlin Jenkins, 18, her son, will take the witness chair Monday in the first degree murder trial of Donald Slater, 18, with whom they are accused jointly of murdering Fred Jenkins, 51-year-old Huntsville telegrapher.

Defense Attorney Roy Roof said today he will call the widow and son of the slain man to the stand to testify on behalf of Slater who observes his 19th birthday in a jail cell tomorrow.

The trial was recessed for the week-end after Slater admitted on the stand that he struck Jenkins with a hammer because Jenkins had threatened Slater and his family. Slater testified Jenkins had attempted to kill him and had engaged him in a physical struggle in the Jenkins home where Slater roomed while he worked in a cafe operated by Mrs. Jenkins.

Other witnesses put on the stand yesterday by Roof said that Jenkins' reputation for "peace and law abiding" was "very bad."

Mrs. Clarence Funkhouser, mother of Donald; Clarence Funkhouser, his step-father, and William Slater, 21, his brother, also testified in behalf of the black-haired young defendant. All of them declared that Slater and Jenkins were "friends."

The state charges that Slater killed Jenkins in bed at his home with several blows on the head with a hammer and that Mrs. Jenkins and Slater then wrapped up the body in a blanket and Slater drove it in the Jenkins automobile to a point east of Miamisburg where he dumped the body in a gully.

Merlin Jenkins is accused of helping to plan and execute the purported murder.

Mrs. Jenkins and Merlin are scheduled to be tried separately at later dates.

Not That It Matters

Who Does This Guy Gayda Think He Is--And Where's His Knowledge of History?

—By JANE WILLIAMS

VIRGINIO GAYDA, press mouthpiece for Mussolini, shook a warning finger at the United States this week and warned us to keep out of European affairs, saying "The time may come when some great European power may intervene against America."

Is Editor Gayda attempting to be funny or is he entirely ignorant of historical facts which any eighth grade school boy knows? What, in the name of high heaven does he think "great European powers" have been doing for the past 175 years but "intervene" in America? Once at least, to our very great advantage, but mostly to our grief and trouble.

When the American colonies tried to throw off the yoke of its mother country, didn't France send soldiers, money, ships and supplies to aid us? And in 1812 England "intervened" and set the Indians against us, and in 1861 England again "intervened" and gave money and supplies to the Confederate states in an effort to break up the United States to her own advantage.

Well, that's exactly what the United States proposes to do right now—to "intervene" in European affairs to the extent of giving supplies and materials to countries whose interests most nearly approximate ours, and if we do, we only are following the example which European powers have set for us.

And furthermore, Editor Gayda should know that it will take something more than an overbearing man with a very large and ugly chin, who seems to have come from a long and sturdy line of grave robbers, to tell the United States to mind its own business.

LAST week-end took a flying motor trip to Norfolk and Williamsburg, Va. (1,500 miles in four days) and while in the latter city went to the Christopher Wren building at William and Mary college. There, on a marble tablet on the old building, were the names of the gallant young Frenchmen who fought shoulder to shoulder with us in the Revolution, who were wounded in battle, whose blood reddened the soil of Virginia and who died in the improvised hospital in the Wren building.

Reading their names over, I wondered if we can be blamed for the unneutral act of providing planes and supplies for the fellow countrymen of these soldiers who died on foreign soil that a new democracy might be founded.

"WAVE of Patriotism Sweeps Country" said one of the week's headlines. Which is something of a misnomer. Patriotism doesn't come in "waves;" it's something you work at regularly and unceasingly. Nor is it an emotionalism which grips the heart for an instant and then is gone.

I weep like a ninny at the sight of the Stars and Stripes flying high over a national cemetery and remember that thousands of men have died to keep it flying; and I get goose pimples when the bright red, white and blue banner slides up a flag pole and a band plays the "Star Spangled Banner." But that isn't patriotism. That's emotionalism.

Patriotism is the thing which makes you fight unceasingly for maintenance of the ideals that built your country, makes you yell long and loud at political corruption in cities and in the halls of the nation; makes you mad and resentful of the men who take advantage of your country and your people; makes you willing to sweat and to sacrifice and to give everything you have to give when your country is endangered. Patriotism is something that rises high above political partisanship and political expediency.

And it isn't expressed in flag waving, flag saluting or yelling down everyone who disagrees with you. On Memorial day the biggest flag waver in Mansfield was an officer in the Mansfield German Bund.

There are times when flag waving is an insult to the flag itself.

CERTAIN members of congress are withholding support of the new tax bill which will help to raise the six billion dollar defense fund until they have a promise from the administration that the money will ALL be spent for defense and not for any of the regular government expenses. They also demand that ordinary governmental expenditures be reduced during this emergency and unusual defense program.

Every patriotic citizen in America should let his congressional representatives know that he too, demands that some definite promise be made to spend this inconceivable amount of money SOLELY for defense. To do otherwise should constitute an act of high treason on the part of any official who is responsible for its spending.

The spending of that fund should be public knowledge, published in every newspaper in the land. It is not enough to tell us that "we have on hand or have on order" so many guns and ships and planes.

We want to know that our defense equipment "is on hand" and not merely "on order" when that six billion dollars is spent.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Cuts from the newsreel:

The Ritz Brothers, after squabbles at the U, have settled on "Argentine Nights," in which the Andrews Sisters of disc, air and stage note will be their threesome. . . . Hollywood is launched on that South American way with this and with "Down Argentine Way," in which the film inseparables, Faye and Ameche, co-star. . . . Cast also has Carmen Miranda, the South American Way Girl. . . .

Few knew it, but Anna Sten doesn't live in that very modernistic beach house any more. Sold it, built another, a French provincial, in Brentwood. . . . The Fredric Marches, who built an elaborate Beverly Hills hovel before March got the stage yen, likewise have sold, are living in a smaller hut. . . . Makes Broadway commuting simpler, he says. . . .

George Abbott, tall, gray, distinguished, in town for screen translation of his "Too Many Girls," in time for final scenes of his "Boys from Syracuse." . . . Kay Kyser returned for a five-week stint at Catalina Island, talking over his next picture with David Butler, director of his first. . . . This time they won't make a story about an orchestra leader who hasn't a story for his first picture. . . . Says Butler: "We have a few ideas, but nothing definite yet." . . . Says Kay: "We've heard we have Dorothy Lamour as the leading lady—and several other leading ladies—but it's the first we've heard of it. . . ." Will it be Ginny Simms, the Kyser band's warbler, as it was in the first picture? "That's right—you're right!" says Kay.

With the community full of honorary mayors, fire chiefs and such, Hollywood has a real, bona fide city official. . . . Roy Seawright, the camera genie who made the dinosaurs tick in "1,000,000 B. C." and supplied the "Topper" and "Turnabout" illusions, was elected to city council in his home town of Hermosa Beach—on a "reform" platform. . . .

Danielle Darrieux is in town—but only in a French movie. . . .

It's been a long time since a Harold Bell Wright novel was screened. . . . Now it's to be "The Shepherd of the Hills," with Bob Preston and that busier-and-busier Betty Field. . . .

DeMille finished "Northwest Mounted Police" ahead of schedule, but it's doubtful that his next will be "Queen of Queens," the story of the Virgin Mary, as previously announced. He would have to have an undivorced star in the title role, and Madeleine Carroll, who for technical beauty would be his first choice, wouldn't qualify in that respect. Ingrid Bergman, another contender, probably couldn't be borrowed. . . .

D. Lamour and other stars are in for a roasting in the forthcoming Allan Jones-Susanna Foster musical. . . . Susanna is preparing several "imitations" of the Lamour style of song. . . .

Paulette Goddard is planning an eastern trip—to Dennis, Mass.—to play the lead in a "straw hat" production of "Our Betters." It'll be some time in July. . . .

SINGLE RING SERVICE READ FOR WEDDING

Fredericktown Girl Becomes Bride of Galion Man at Ceremony Today.

GALION—At noon today, Eileen Johnson of Galion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. Johnson of Fredericktown, became the bride of Chalmers Geiger, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Geiger of Galion, in Crooksville, Ohio.

The single ring ceremony was read at the parsonage of Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Cundiff, formerly of Fredericktown.

There were no attendants, but the ceremony was witnessed by the parents of both the bride and bridegroom.

Smartly attired in a navy blue chiffon frock, with blue and white accessories, the bride also wore a strand of pearls which was a gift of the bridegroom. Her corsage was of gardenias and lillies-of-the-valley.

There were covers laid for nine guests when the minister's wife served a wedding dinner.

Later in the summer, the couple will leave on an extended wedding trip. They will make their home at 143 Gill avenue.

The bride who has been guest of honor for a number of prenuptial parties in Galion, Crestline, and Mansfield, was graduated from the Fredericktown high school, and the Mansfield General hospital. She resigned the first of June from her position as nurse at the Good Samaritan hospital in Galion.

Mr. Geiger was graduated from the Galion high school. He is an interior decorator.

aged man with a sly reference to his Scotch birth. "Don't let your Scotch thrift get the better of you—we want you to spend the money for some of the little things you've wanted." No one in Mansfield enjoys a reference to Scotch thriftiness more than Rev. Millar.

The Masonic quartet, made up of C. B. Bushnell and Dimon Herring (who were members of the old Masonic quartet years ago) Wilbur Hegnauer and H. V. Henness, sang several of Rev. Millar's favorite hymns, "Remember Me, O Almighty One," "The Lord Is My Shepherd" and "Blue Galilee." And not to be outdone, the whitehaired chaplain sang one of the Scotch songs he had learned as a boy in The Corbals, Scotland.

Rev. Millar was born in the little town near Glasgow on June 7, 1840. He studied for the ministry there and was ordained before he came to America in 1865. He had retired from the ministry before he came to Mansfield in 1907, but he never gave up his church work and served as guest pastor at various churches until about a year ago. After he had observed his 99th birthday last June he went to Detroit and Marquette to attend his church conference, a trip he made annually.

There was one little shadow over his happiness last night. Mrs. Millar wasn't with him. She fell several months ago and suffered a broken hip and has been confined to her home since then.

Last night's affair was one of several which have been given in his honor during the week.

WRITER TELLS OF FRONT LINE

'Hold or Die' Watchword of French Troops Defending Road to Paris.

try briefly to set forth the situation as I saw it:

The Germans are hurling everything that will move on wings, wheels, chains or feet into this attack.

The German offensive is exacting a fearful toll in men and machines.

Reliable estimates place the Nazi casualties on the Somme front at more than 300,000, bringing their total war losses to around 1,100,000.

Huge as they sound, French officials believe these estimates to be accurate.

Of the total casualities, it is a safe assumption that 20 per cent are dead.

In places, their tanks have penetrated the flexible French system of defense. The French, on the other hand, have penetrated the German advancing lines with their tanks.

So there is a vast no-man's land with dog-fights between tanks, artillery and planes.

The German planes are bombing everywhere endlessly. Their superiority in numbers is heartbreaking to see from where I stand. I counted 126 in a single flight going over our heads just after dawn to attack somewhere in France. I saw endless other groups of from eight to 26 diving on the front and on nearby villages.

One flight blew up a hospital in a town where I had been a short while before, killing civilians as well as military.

The German infantry is attacking with mad fanaticism, leaping with screams over the body of its own dead. Prisoners have a look of madness about them.

But the French are holding with a bravery that I have not the words to describe. I talked to a wounded sergeant who was struggling deliriously to "get back at the Boches."

An officer informed me:

"He is one of six living survivors of a group of crack motorized cuirrassiers. They did their work well."

I talked to two other wounded who were among the last fourteen—all wounded—of another group. I heard of a small unit which had only four survivors.

That's the way it's going. The situation as I see it is crucial. The next few days may be the most important in history.

But whatever happens, I shall forever take off my hat to this breathless bravery.

ISOLATIONIST BLOC ATTACKS AID TO ALLIES

Move to Halt Trade-in Plan of Releasing Munitions For Use in War.

ed States Steel corporation will act as a "clearing house" for transfer of old guns and ammunition that originally cost $200,000,000 and for which the army will receive about $50,000,000.

It was learned that some of the equipment already has been shipped to the company and that plans have been completed for its transfer to eastern seaboard ports for shipment to the Allies.

Official sources disclosed that present plans call for turning over to U. S. Steel 600,000 Lee-Enfield rifles, nearly 1,000 75-millimeter guns of British and French make, and some Lewis machine guns and large quantities of ammunition.

The same "trade in" procedure is being applied in disposing of at least 340 army and navy planes. Fifty navy scout bombers already have been returned to the Curtiss Aeroplane company, Buffalo, N. Y., and another 40 will be returned shortly.

Meantime unconfirmed reports circulated here that the administration is planning to ask congress before authorizations for the defense program. Most of the authorization reportedly would be for airplanes.

The plan reported to be under discussion is that such an authorization would enable the army and navy to work out comprehensive deals with plane makers, giving them a huge quantity of contracts which would enable them to figure out their orders for about two years in advance.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, JUNE 8, 1940.

Drive carefully tomorrow—especially if the weather is fine and the highways are crowded.

Even the politicians are beginning to realize that bombs can fall on Democrats and Republicans alike.

Folks are "set in their ways" and the superstitious still look askance at the 13-month calendar proposal.

Life Span of Five-Score Years

AND SO, as all had hoped, it was God's will that "Daddy" Millar should be permitted to reach the great age of one hundred years.

Not that it made any considerable difference, one way or the other, to that fine old "servant of the Lord," for he has long been ready for the call that, soon or late, comes to everyone.

It was fitting that yesterday, and through the past week, various organizations with which he has been associated should give special recognition to Rev. David B. Millar, as he approached and finally passed the century mark, for that, in itself, is so unusual as to merit any attention that can be given it.

But when the widespread influence of such a life is considered, it is realized that it is not in years alone that Rev. Millar has made a noteworthy record.

Under ordinary reckoning, Rev. Millar was at age for retirement from the ministry when he came to Mansfield thirty-three years ago after pastoral service of thirty-eight years, yet during his almost a third of a century in this community the practices of his daily life and his steadfast devotion to his religious faith has made him a constant inspiration to thousands in this community who have been privileged to know him in church or fraternal associations, or in his long-time service as law librarian, a position he held until he reached the age of 96.

It has been remarked, by those who observe, that Nature makes it a regular practice to place a mark of approval, in the sunset years of life, upon those who have consistently obeyed her laws, and that, finally, there is a transition stage in which the spiritual seems to take dominance over the physical phase of earthly existence.

Those who have known Rev. Millar well during the past score of years will understand the sincerity of his reply, made a year ago when he was asked if he wished to live to be a hundred. "Only if the Master wants me to," he said, "I want to go only when He is ready for me."

And when the Master calls there will be an assured "Welcome home" for the little Scotch dominie who has served so long and faithfully.

Warn Children of Street Danger

LACK of supervised playgrounds, to which Mansfield had been accustomed for almost twenty years, will naturally result in more children resorting to dangerous play in city streets during the summer vacation.

The coincidence of four young children being struck by cars in one day serves to direct public attention to the hazard involved and gives emphasis to the warning of Chief of Police Bates that parents make sure their children understand the risk of playing in the street or attempting to cross a street when cars are approaching.

Even when cars are being driven at legal speed and in a careful manner, it is sometimes impossible for a motorist to avoid striking a child who runs suddenly into the street, but the greater danger is from the high speed at which many Mansfield motorists have become accustomed to drive on residence streets where the speed limit is 25 miles an hour and on which children are most likely to be playing.

If there is to be a continuance of the non-enforcement policy in the matter of excessive speed on Mansfield residential streets, the safety of children will rest entirely upon parents and upon carefulness of the children themselves.

Passing the Scout Tests

WHEN Clarence Silcott, at the age of 53, was this week awarded an Eagle badge, in recognition of belated accomplishments in scouting, he not only fulfilled a worthy ambition but also gave others an idea of what middle aged adults can do if they "set their mind to it."

The Boy Scout movement came to Mansfield too late for Clarence to take advantage of it at customary scouting age, and it was not until his son became a scout that he began evidencing a real interest and taking part in organization activities.

Then he decided he could do a better job as a deputy commissioner if he prepared himself to take each of the tests required for advancement and award of merit badges for special proficiency along widely varied lines.

Explaining his purpose in going through the complete Boy Scout regimen, from Tenderfoot to Eagle, Clarence puts it this way: "I decided that if I was to stay in the scout movement and assist in developing boys into better manhood, I should know more about the requirements from the boy's standpoint."

And whether it is scouting or some other youth activity, such an adult attitude of interest and participation is commendable.

Canada's Friendly Attitude.

WITH many Americans presumably planning to visit Canada this summer, and some of them wondering what sort of reception they will get, this comment from the Montreal Star should be interesting. The Star is giving advice to Canadians.

"The worst possible disservice Canadians can do the Allied cause" it says, "is to antagonize Americans by criticising the attitude of the latter toward the war. Most emphatically it is none of our business, and this fact cannot be too strongly impressed upon our citizens. The attitude of the American government has been more than friendly, as a moment of reflection should serve to convince any thinking individual.

"We want not only to keep but to strengthen this friendship. We can best do this by attending strictly to our own business, and by making all Americans who enter Canada this year, or at any time in the future throughout the war, feel that we have not the slightest desire even to appear to dictate to them or suggest to them what action they, as a free nation, shall take in regard to the war."

This is an admirable and self-respecting statement. The advice given will probably be followed. Canadians are habitually less outspoken, anyway, than our people are, less inclined to offer suggestions and criticism.

As matters stand, the two nations may be expected to get along together very well this summer.

Little has been heard about Jimmy Cromwell since he has become merely another candidate.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—For arresting moments I give you Raye and Naldi. They are dancers. There are many dancers, and some of them are good ones. But Raye and Naldi command your attention and your enthusiasm because they do things differently. They think. They dance with their brains as well as with their feet.

They believe the sense of "feel" in dancing is as important, perhaps even more so, than the sense of sound. Rhythm, in other words, is more important than tonal qualities. To prove this they dance without music.

Raye and Naldi achieve this effect by dancing to poetry rather than to music. Poetry is full of rhythm.

Their outstanding number is danced to the poem "Sylvia." There is a reader in the background. He is a trained master of pronunciation. He knows how to savor words, and to shade them.

Naturally, they dance to music too. I suppose they have hundreds of special numbers in their repertoire—rhumbas, waltzes, semi-acrobatic numbers. They do some of these. But for their climax, for the punch of the evening, they fall back on the mystic silences—the shadow-motions of a recited poem. It is magnificent.

LAST week came a belated admission that Allied bombers purchased in the U. S. were being flown across the Atlantic. I cannot vouch for what I am about to say, but it was told me by an aviation official for whom I have the highest regard. He said, "The Allies have been flying these planes for weeks. At least 1,800 have been flown across the Atlantic, and only six have been lost."

This was told me at least six weeks ago.

MR. RICHARD E. GLENDINNING of Dartmouth sends in a note. Mr. Glendinning is Editorial Chairman of The Dartmouth, the oldest college newspaper in America. He's perturbed. "We are tired of women's crowning folly," he writes. "We are tired of frowsy queens of the street . . . who toss their tangled locks and expect men to swoon at the sight. Men don't like women without hats on the street. We think women look well dressed with hats, and silly without them. We want to start a girl-cott against girls who boycott hats. Hair is all right in its place, but its place for a pretty girl is under her hat. Will you get in this campaign with us?"

Ans.: Dear Dick: I am wondering whether the women up around Dartmouth wear the same style of hats that the women wear in New York. If they do I should imagine, or at least hope, that your attitude would be different. I can't say that I go for tresses that flutter like pennants in the breeze, but I must admit that some of the hats I have seen here give me the willies. They disturb me and leave me troubled. Often I can't sleep. I'm afraid this time I'll have to renege.

"POISON IVY"

Fingerprint In Many Countries

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

REGISTRATION and finger printing aren't necessarily as bad as they're represented. It's Uncle Sam's wartime plan of dealing with all aliens in our midst, to guard against Trojan horse, fifth column and other un-American activities. Of course, large numbers of our home folk are warmly in favor of the method. Nevertheless, there's a certain amount of objection to it, on the ground that it's un-American, in itself, to assume that an alien is a spy, a saboteur or some other sort of a tough character until he's furnished proofs to the contrary. If he gets into the United States on a legitimate passport, exponents of this reasoning contend, that ought to be enough.

Now, the fact of the matter is that quite a number of countries register and finger print, not only aliens, but their own citizens, too. However, not all of them insist on it; they do it as a service to the registrants. It's quite the rule in Latin America, but the republic I'm most familiar with is Argentina, so that's the system I'll undertake to describe.

In the Argentine, as elsewhere, almost any individual is likely to find himself occasionally in a position where he needs identification for his own convenience. For instance, I lived there in Buenos Aires, the capital, where I was well acquainted, but on trips up country, to places like Rosario and Salta, I've had considerable difficulty in getting checks cashed.

A Public Service.

The Argentina police take the position that one of their functions is to guarantee the identities of residents or visitors within their jurisdiction—Argentines and aliens alike.

The first step is to identify yourself to the police, wherever you may happen to be.

This identification must be thorough. If you pass the examination successfully you're handed a small folder of about two by three inches. It contains your photograph, your thumb print, a few words of information concerning you and a police certificate to the effect that you're the individual you profess to be.

You can take that "cedula," as it's called, into any bank or any other place in the Argentina republic and it immediately will be accepted as o. k.

Let's hope you never get into trouble of any sort with the Argentine authorities, but if you do a cedula will be a great influence in your favor, for the police, if they know it, don't issue cedulas to tough characters.

Registration at a Premium.

Now, you're not required to be registered and finger printed.

You have to call in at police headquarters and ask to have it attended to.

The charge is nominal—just enough to pay for your small photograph and the actual cost of the cedula.

But before the transaction's completed considerable investigating has to be done, and the police take their time about it—a month, maybe. Now, possibly, for some reason, you want your cedula in a hurry. In that event you can expedite matters by a tip to just the right functionary. He'll hasten the investigation all he can. There won't be anything phoney about it, for it would make him serious trouble to have one of his cedulas found on a captured malefactor. But you can get yours in a couple of days for the Argentine equivalent of a $10 bill.

I don't defend this tipping system. I think the Argentine police ought to be ashamed of it.

All the same, the fact that the average cedula-seeker is willing to pay considerably extra to be registered and finger printed as fast as possible rather goes to show that he recognizes the system as a convenience, not a reflection upon him.

Maybe Uncle Sam, if he chose, could popularize HIS system in the same way, and make a little money out of it also.

Listen, World!

Are They Grafters or Go-Getters?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

MRS. JIM JONES wants me to write "a red-hot article about these selfish young wives who keep their husbands slaving to serve their ruthless ambition."

Yes, you've guessed it. Mama's Darling is in the toils. For years 'n' years Jim Junior drifted around, working when and if he pleased. Then along came The Beautiful Doll. And now Jim's married, and sweating plenty. For the B. D. wants Things. Lots of Things. A nice little House. A keen little car. Refrigerators—radios—a ranch some day. And a family. All of which is putting wrinkles in Jim Junior's hitherto placid brow, and Mama's Mad! So won't I p-l-e-a-s-e write an editorial against these Greedy Modern Girls.

I'll write the editorial, Mom—but I won't guarantee to satisfy your blood lust. For I'm not at all convinced that these lively lassies are a blood-sucking blight. To the contrary, I suspect they're civilization's greatest allies. Y'u see, it's this way, lady—I've lived through a number of eras and over a considerable acreage—and I've yet to note any great change in my Female Sex. You can call them "grafters" and "gold diggers" if you wish; but I've a hunch that this human race owes most of its progress to the fact that The Girls Keep Prodding the Boys Along!"

Men are a great treat and a diverting show. They love to start things, exciting things—like wars, crusades, adventures and discoveries. But when the wars and adventures are finished, they want to come back and take a nice, long rest and Talk Things Over. It's all very well to conquer the wilderness. But when it comes to clearing the chapparal, shoring up the springs and planting the crops, they're apt to lose interest. In other words, the Big Brave Boys are 100% as warriors—but as Handy Men they're not so hot.

And that's where the Little Woman gets busy. For well she knows that a Conquered Wilderness isn't worth a hoot, unless it can produce homes. So, after she has given Papa a reasonable interval in which to brag, she starts boring in with a lot of pointed remarks and suggestions. And heaven help Papa if he doesn't show some action!

I'm thinking of the pioneers I knew as a child—and of the fantastic trash I've read about them since. According to popular folklore, the lads of '49 turned our savage frontier into a blooming garden. Like heck they did! I knew those lads, in their chastened age, and I'm telling you—if it hadn't been for a lot of up-and-attem wives, the Indians would still be collecting scalps on Market Street, San Francisco. The Fathers of Our Nation dug wells, paved roads, ploughed fields and drafted laws, not because they wanted to please George Washington or Jehovah, but because there was hell to pay unless they did!

Nor can I see that things have changed very much today. Dad's darling but he's still not a self-starter, save in rare cases. Give him an old shirt, a fishing rod, some gadgets to tinker with and a chance to gab with The Gang—and he's happy. But Mom wants a college course for Eddie, and one of those newfangled washing machines—and Dad's just out of luck.

BUT CIVILIZATION HAS EDGED AN INCH AHEAD!

So I'm not going to ban your little daughter-in-law with "bell, book and candle," Mrs. Jones. Instead, I'm going to give her my enthusiastic endorsement. She may be putting wrinkles on Jimmy. But consciously or unconsciously, she's paving the Course of Empire. More power to her, says I!

Mary's House

—By HELEN LOOMIS LINHAM

Mary has the nicest place:
Truly it is sweet.
I have never seen a house
Nearly so complete.

No, it didn't cost so much—
Just a four-room flat:
But Mary has a special way
Of doing this and that.

Hook rugs on her shining floors;
Plaques upon her wall
Painted by her clever hands
Seem no trick at all

Just a clever little place—
Needlepoint and jade—
But a singing sort of house
Has our Mary made.

Flower-sprigged her house frocks are,
Frilly yet so trim.
Even these she fashions thus,
Thinking of her Jim.

Not a costly thing about,
Up the stairs or down,
But Mary has the sweetest place
In our town.

Parking Meters Popular.

Ten day's trial of parking meters has convinced the average Clevelander that the system will do all that had been claimed for it.

Installation of the meters has had a tendency to lessen traffic congestion. It has driven from downtown streets the all-day parker. It has proven a convenience to downtown shoppers.

Cleveland likes the parking meters and an extension of the meter area will be welcomed generally.—Cleveland Press.

Summary of Week's Happenings

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

THOUGH the United States can boast that it has a navy as big and as efficient as anyone's, its air force rates seventh in the world, and its army about 21st.

Switzerland, Bulgaria and Greece all have more troops (actives plus trained reserves) than the U. S. In fact the American army is about the same size as Portugal's.

Until a few weeks ago, most Americans (including militarists) had figured that since our big navy could handle all challenges a thousand miles out, a large army would be pointless. Now they are worrying about what would happen if an aggressor slipped past the navy.

The present active strength of the army is 227,000. This is to be increased to 280,000 under the new army supply bill. But on Wednesday Chief of Staff Marshall said that possibility of "dangerous developments" in this hemisphere in the next few months made it "urgently necessary" to increase the army to at least 400,000.

He also backed a request to give the president authority to call out the 240,000 national guards if necessary. Many lawmakers objected to this as needlessly "ominous."

The fear of a totalitarian assault on Latin American caused congressmen to indicate support for a proposal to implement the Monroe Doctrine. Under the plan, the U. S. would not tolerate any transfer of title to land already colonized. (British, French and Dutch possessions in America.)

In Berlin, Nazis — apparently anxious not to frighten the U. S. into sending aid to the Allies—said they thought the Monroe Doctre perfectly justified.

Senator Pepper was rebuffed in attempts to get America to send the Allies all possible help short of war, but continued to circulate an ingenious proposal for getting airplanes to the Allies quickly, and legally.

He proposed that the U. S. turn back to manufacturers 500 old-model planes that were due to be replaced. The manufacturers could see to it that they were rushed to Europe. Frenchmen promptly hinted that just such a move might save them. But many lawmakers insisted that the U. S. should not now reduce its own air force.

More Taxes Favored.

Senators readily okayed a bill authorizing an 11% increase in the fleet and eventual expansion of the naval air force to 10,000 planes.

The president's additional request for $1,277,000,000 for defense brought the total in the bill now pending to about $4,500,000,000, or roughly three-quarters of the amount spent in the first fiscal year of the World war for arms.

A billion dollar relief bill approved by the senate appropriations committee was said to be "sprinkled throughout" with the words "national defense."

To pay the cost of this rearming, lawmakers seemed to favor taxes over and above those now pending in a bill to raise $656,000,000. Senator Vandenberg said that bill was like putting "a mustard plaster on a cancer," and called for an overhauling of government finances. Several senators favored extra taxes for raising at least $1,000,000,000.

From Autos to Airplanes.

A house subcommittee voted tentatively to lower individual income tax exemptions from $2,500 to $2,000 for married persons, and from $1,000 to $800 for single persons. And the house itself seemed prepared to raise the national debt limit from $45,000,000,000 to $49,000,000,000.

CIO leaders opposed the legislation barring Communists, Nazis and all but 10% of the aliens from any interstate industry. Protested the laborites: "Under the guise of discharging alleged Communists, employers would be permitted to evade practically all of the provisions of the National Labor Relations act. . . ."

Ohio Anecdotes

Renegade Redskins.

NEWS of the American Revolution confused Indians in the wilderness Ohio country. Capitalizing upon the tribesmen's misunderstandings, the British enlisted the sympathies of all Indians they could not enroll in the Royal Army.

Colonists countered this move by calling a mass meeting of the Indians at Fort Pitt in September, 1775—the largest Indian delegation ever convened. Here the Indians' favor was sought successfully by the Americans.

One small tribe of Ohio Indians, undisciplined Mingoes known as "Pluggy's band," refused to go along with their tribal brothers. From their village on the present site of Delaware this band of renegades plundered and razed surrounding frontier American homes during the autumn of 1776.

Congress considered warning the Mingoes, but abandoned the idea for fear of inciting a general frontier war with the Indians. The outlaw band's attack was repulsed at McCleland's Station Dec. 29, 1776, and their leader, Captain Pluggy, was killed.

Life is one continuous round of unfinished business.

Quotes

Owen D. Young suggests the unemployed be put to work on defense projects: "There is no greater weakness in defense than to have a lot of idle and discouraged people."

Abroad

New Soviet Union?

There were signs this week that Britain's effort to win Russia away from Germany might be progressing favorably. In London, Russians said the Allies' interests in the Black sea and Western Mediterranean paralleled Russia's. In Moscow, Premier Molotoff accepted Sir Stafford Cripps as British ambassador. And in Russian newspapers were announcements that the Allies, despite Nazi victories, were still strong.

New Wrinkles In War.

French fliers report that Germans—in an effort to fool them—are building fake towns all over Germany. It's all done with lights. The "towns" consist of patterns of light arranged on the ground in open country so as to resemble actual towns many miles away. Every few days the lights are shifted.

And Poilus who were curious to know how Nazi bombs could rip such big craters in their air fields began inspecting fragments. They found the bombs had concrete cores inside their steel shells. The added weight thrust the shells deeper into the ground.

Politics

Byrnes a Mate?

As delegate-gathering for the national political conventions neared the finish this week, Franklin D. Roosevelt could claim (if he wanted to) a clear majority of Democratic convention votes.

Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator (an aspirant himself) and Senator McKellar of Tennessee urged Mr. Roosevelt's re-election. Said McKellar: "This is no time to swap horses in midstream." (Remember 1932?)

So Democrats speculated this week as to a vice presidential candidate. When Senator Byrnes of South California took a weekend cruise with President Roosevelt, Washingtonians began assuming he was FDR's choice.

Free Air for Communists?

To guard against favoritism, U. S. radio stations—under the communications act — must treat all political parties alike in doling out free time on the air. When 2,000 Communists met in New York Sunday to nominate Earl Browder for president and James Ford, Negro, for vice president, CBS grumbled that no broadcaster should be forced to give time to any party proven "to be subservient to a foreign party."

The networks covered the proceedings, but many of their individual stations cancelled the program. Browder is free on bail from a four-year prison sentence.

His party's platform opposes FDR's defense program, asks for support of the Soviet's "peace policy," and urges a 30-hour week.

At Home

Film-Makers on Trial.

A whopper among the nation's industries is movie-making. In New York, this week, Hollywood's "Big Eight", went on trial on charges of violating the anti-trust act. Specifically, they were accused of (1) forming a pool for swapping stars, directors, technicians and sets while seldom offering the same to independent producers, and (2) denying independent theater owners access to their films until their own theaters had shown them first.

On the day the trial opened, one defendant, Joseph Schenck, head of 20th Century-Fox Film corporation, was indicted on charges of defrauding the U. S. of $400,000 in taxes in 1935-37. Schenck, who nursed a $600 shoe-string into a Hollywood fortune, called the charges in his indictment "unfair." Two auditing firms, he said, had examined his books and concluded that he had overpaid rather than underpaid the U. S. in his tax returns.

On Saluting Old Glory.

Americans salute their flag as a compliment to their nation: no federal law requires them to do so. Most public schools open each morning with flag-saluting exercises. At Minersville, Pa., two youngsters balked, in 1938, because they said the salute was a form of "idolatry." Their school board expelled them.

And this week 40 members of a religious sect were jailed in Odessa, Tex., for insisting they could not salute any man-made object.

The U. S. supreme court, on Monday, sustained the Minersville school board. Justice Frankfurter opined that "the wisdom of training children in patriotic impulses by those compulsions which necessarily pervade so much of the educational process" should not be passed upon by a court: it was a question of "educational policy."

Obedient Step-Daughters.

Two dark-eyed fetching girls in Greenwich Village, New York, made many five-cent purchases at neighborhood stores and always paid for them with quarters, police heard. When they trailed the girls to their home, officers found a step-father busy with a mold for making counterfeit quarters. The man was charged with having trained the girls to dispose of nearly $10,000 in spurious coins.

Dickinson's Devils.

Michigan's aged, Bible-teaching Gov. Luren Dickson journeyed to Chicago last week-end to address a Midwestern Christian Loyalty rally. He told listeners the U. S. seems "headed for social, moral and financial ruin and decay right now." Mostly to blame, he thought, were liquor, licentiousness and lavish spending.

In Short

Resigned: Secretary of the Navy Edison, to run for governor of New Jersey.

Crashed: A huge Douglas air transport being tested for the navy, near Los Angeles. Four were killed.

Settled: The financial aspects of all criminal and civil federal income tax cases against M. L. Annenberg, Philadelphia publisher, when, reportedly, he agreed to pay the U. S. $8,000,000.

Convicted: Former Governor Richard Leche of Louisiana, of using the federal mails to defraud. Leche was a colleague of the late Huey Long.

Died: Dr. Robert Moton, negro educator who succeeded Booker T. Washington at Tuskegee Institute; S. S. Hull, Secretary of State Hull's brother.

Lucretia Hedges Society Plans Annual Family Picnic

LAST night Mrs. Harold Mansfield, 54 Sturges avenue, opened her home to members of the Lucretia Hedges Missionary society of the First Methodist church. She was assisted by Mrs. George Hout, Mrs. Kenneth Stonebrook and Miss Ethel Hughes. Guests of the organization were Mrs. William C. Mansfield, Mrs. Sidney Palmer, and Mrs. Paul Early.

A brief business meeting was conducted by Mrs. James Rizer, president, during which it was decided to hold the annual family picnic July 19 at North Lake park. Mrs. S. R. Baird is general chairman.

Mrs. R. L. Fox was program chairman. Miss Capitola Kissane led group singing and the responsive reading, after which Miss Bessie Bell presented a history of the organization. She told that the group had become an auxiliary in Oct. 1924 at a meeting held with Miss Grace Bonnell. There were 20 present at that time. The group was originally organized in 1919 as a young women's society, and in 1925 it was named for Miss Hedges who had done a great deal of missionary work in the south. Miss Bell also told the group that the society has remembered all the church's shut-in members with plants each Easter since 1919.

Mrs. Hout read three poems. They were "In Flander's Field" by John B. McCrae, "Vive La France," and "America First" by Dennis McCarthy. Mrs. Rizer read the "Ten Commandments for Peace in Times of International Crisis" from the "Women's Home Mission" magazine. The program was concluded with "Heroes of Faith," a paper by Mrs. Fox, which outlined the accomplishments of the national presidents of the Home Missionary society.

It was also announced that the society's ten goals had been completed with the peace program and the recitation of Bible verses last night.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

REUNION TOMORROW.

Members of the Huston family will hold their annual reunion tomorrow at Brookside park in Ashland, it was announced today. A picnic dinner will be served at 1 o'clock.

CLASS REUNION HELD ON 45TH ANNIVERSARY

Members of Third Class to Graduate From John Simpson High School Have Dinner Party at Susie Janis Home.

A GROUP of classmates from the Jewel class, which was graduated from John Simpson high school, June 7, 1895, met last night at the Susie Janis home for a dinner and the first reunion. In the original class there were 27 girls. It was reported last night that seven of the group are now deceased, two cannot be located, six are in Mansfield and the remainder are now living in other cities.

Members of the class from Mansfield, who with their husbands attended the party, were Carrie Kerr Ford, Laura Cairns Arbison, Edith Ackerman Post, Harriett Bristor Bailey, and Mabel Koppes. Avis Keffer Ernsberger, another Mansfield member, was not in attendance.

Communications were received by Mrs. Bailey from the following out-of-town members: Tillie Stamer Estabrook, Palm Beach, Fla.; Mabel Mell Brown, Beaver Falls, Pa.; Mary Durbin Heinrick, New Orleans, La.; Grace Wheeler Race, Chicago, Ill.; Myrtle Keiser Miller, Lulu Hardwidge Trump, Pasadena, Calif.; Margaret Feldner, Los Angeles, Calif., and Flora Hartman, San Diego, Calif.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Oberlin, Hammond, Ind., and Mrs. Aleen Campbell, Cleveland, also were present. Mrs. Oberlin and Mrs. Campbell were members of the class. Dr. and Mrs. E. D. Lyon, Cincinnati, and Miss Bertha Ruess were the guests of honor. Dr. Lyon and Miss Ruess, both teachers of the class, spoke briefly.

Mrs. Bailey served as toastmistress. The long table at which the group was seated was decorated in orchid and white iris which carried out the class colors of lavender and white. During the evening the group sang the class song which had been written by Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Oberlin.

This class was the third to graduate from the school, 45 years ago.

Alumnae Group Entertains With Dinner at Leland

There were 50 present at the dinner-dance of the General Hospital alumnae association last night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel when members of the graduating class of 1940 were honored. Mrs. Harold Doolittle was chairman, and she was assisted by Miss Helen Gilmore and Miss Vivian Aplin.

A color scheme of chartreuse and dubonnet was carried out in the decorations, and the tables were decorated with large centerpieces of delphinium, the class flower.

The welcome address was given by Miss Gilmore, and Miss Miriam Keller responded. Then Miss Mabel Selfe gave the toast, and the class was introduced and presented with gifts by Miss Georgia Scott. Group singing followed.

Miss Aplin served as toastmistress. John Grabler was strolling troubador, playing familiar music during the dinner hour, and dances were given by Clark Gerigan, Anita King and Carolyn Wilkinson, students from the Marguerite Speas studio. Dancing to Gene Lantz's orchestra followed.

Marriage Meddlers

PHILIP VERITZEN, master showman that he is, well knows the value of suspense in a dramatic situation. As his eyes roved from one to the other of us grouped before him in the library I knew that he was employing every bit of his technique to heighten the tension of nerves affecting every one of us, but affecting his young daughter-in-law most of all.

Finally, nodding ever so slightly, as if he were satisfied with what he saw in our faces, he drew a chair to a spot facing the center of our semi-circle, sat down in it, and leaned slightly forward, much in the attitude of a university professor beginning a lecture period.

"This is going to be a long story," he began, a frosty smile touching the corners of his mouth. "But—I find it necessary to be somewhat prolix in order that you may understand the motives that have actuated me in some of the things I have done. I trust—" his lips twisted wryly—"that when I have finished, some of you will have occasion to revise your theories."

He had no reason to complain of an inattentive audience, I told myself. The most blase of college instructors might have been flattered by the way in which every pair of eyes in the room was focused on his face. And something told me that he was reveling in his own mastery of the situation.

"I think," he went on after an effective pause, "that most of you are more or less familiar with my methods of work and my—idiosyncracies—let us say, when I am training a potential feminine star for the Vertizen organization. But for those who may not know—" he did not look at his royal fiancee and her daughter, but we all knew whom he meant—"it might be well to give a word of explanation.

"In the first place," he went on, "I never have produced a play which did not revolve around a woman lead. There are great plays, of course, in which men have the star roles, but I do not care to produce them. A gifted woman is so much finer, so much more capable of responding to training—there is no comparison. But—she must be gifted—rarely gifted—or I will have none of her. The roster of the Veritzen stars contains no faintly gleaming luminaries."

Once more I felt the sensation of an icy finger-tip touching my spine. Was he leading up to a declaration that despite the wonderful rendition of her role which Mary had given him, she did not come up to his requirements?

"When I have once chosen a potential woman star," he went on slowly, "I set her apart. She must be like a priestess of old, tending a shrine—the shrine of her own great talent, and I expect her to have only the most fleeting contacts with anybody or anything outside the circle of her dramatic venture. Friendship, love, home ties, all must be severed while her role is in preparation."

I did not dare to glance at Mary. I knew, of course, that she was gamely sitting erect, and that her histrionism was enabling her to present an unruffled face to her father-in-law's scrutiny. But I also knew that she must be going through a very hell of uncertainty as to what the great producer's final verdict would be, and I would have given much to be able to dash forward and strike the smugness from Philip Veritzen's face.

But my position was such that from beneath my lowered lashes I could see Queen Olga's face and those of Olina and Noel. Their glances were for the moment averted from Philip Veritzen's face. Noel was looking at Mary, Olina was looking at Noel, while Queen Olga was covertly but keenly watching her daughter.

And then Philip Veritzen brought us all back to alert attention again.

"But I must digress at this point," he said, "to tell you that I have a phobia, a strong one, and its name is nepotism."

OF HEAVEN'S BENEDICTION++

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

(Copyright 1940)

CHAPTER XXXI

Brooke said, "I've discovered that the things you want aren't given you. You earn them." Love an expensive thing, had to be earned, too . . .

Later Margot said, "And by the way, I'm producing two young men with car for the week-end, one apiece, of course. We'll go somewhere to swim. And, contrary to most cases, the one for me doesn't want me to give up my idea for career and marry him. He said, 'Hurry up and get famous, darling'."

Brooke thought, I' macquiring roots and friends . . . No longer did she sensitively read between the lines of her stepmother's scribbled letters, feeling keenly unwanted. Grace had written her regret at being away and the words of her last letter had come to Brooke's mind often:

"I hear from Rod and he sends me money. I know it's her money and I know it's foolish to feel this way, but sometimes I feel that it is as bad as stolen money. I am a hard-headed, independent fool! And it's a funny thing, Brooke and something I never realized before, that when you are down and out there are a lot of people willing to help you—but when you acquire something, people get the idea it's gone to your head and treat you as if it had. I don't suppose you can call the people who cross on the other side of the street when they see you coming your friends, but some that I thought were mine have been doing that to me and looking at me in church as if I were a stranger. Jealous? I don't know. But that's what's been happening lately. When I was working hard, I didn't have time to think about such things. And when I didn't have any money, I had my son."

It was Sunday morning, a hot clear day. Brooke had slept late, had breakfasted leisurely alone and had walked a little and returned to her room, knowing that Margot Stevenson, ever punctual, would remind her soon by telephone that she had a "date" that afternoon. It was to be a pleasant and uneventful afternoon, no doubt. Most important was that it was the beginning of a week the end of which would bring Julian back to New York. And over the telephone she would hear the clear pricise voice tell her when he would see her again. Would her voice betray her? That day in Maine, that day more sharply etched in memory now than any other day. . . .

When the telephone rang, she was so certain it was Margot that she picked it up quickly and said, "Margot, I'm . . ."

"It's Rod, Brooke."

Her hand lessened its grip . . . Rod . . .

He said, "I want to see you, Brooke. May I see you now?"

That one voice, deep and vibrant. . . .

"Of course, Rod. Here . . ." How agreeable she was!

"In fifteen minutes. Have you had luncheon?"

"No."

"In fifteen minutes," he said again.

Why hadn't she refused him? Why hadn't she said, "I'm sorry but I promised to go swimming with Margot and two young men?"

Fifteen minutes. . . . She called Margot, murmured an apology, changed into a dark sheer frock and pulled the blue turban over her hair. She did not wait for him this time. Scarcely was she ready before the phone rang again and he said that he was waiting.

She was conscious of hurrying when she wanted and needed time.

Wearing brown, Rod, was standing stiffly beside the house telephones. His sunburn had deepened. Brooke's eyes swept over him, finding nothing wanting in the tall, faultlessly dressed figure. If she had never seen him before she thought, she would probably turn to look at him. Now memories rushed over her, bringing the past to the present. She thought of Irene for the first time since he had called. . . .

"Hello, Rod." . . . coolly, seeing on closer scrutiny that he was solemn, his eyes troubled.

"Brooke . . ." He said her name as if he tried to put all his shame and regret into the one syllable.

A greeting which lasted a moment only while they looked at each other, standing in a lobby where people moved about them. A moment for her to know that it was only memories and his dark good looks which stirred her still and that . . . his touch had lost its magic. Love can die. Somewhere between one minute and the next it can be born and it can die. Standing here now, knowing that in trouble he had turned to her, feeling no triumph that he had returned, Brooke was more profoundly sorry for him than she had ever been for any one in her life. Why couldn't she be angry? Why couldn't she hurt this vulnerable Rod?

"We could have luncheon here," she said. "It's pleasant and quiet and as cool as any place."

There were few people in the dining-room, few, for that matter, in the hotel this week end. The waiter led them to a corner table and they ordered at once.

Since it would be absurd at the beginning to pretend that this was a casual luncheon for two people who had known each other intimately, Brooke came to the point at once.

"How is Tony, Rod?" realizing when she saw quick jealousy in his eyes that he probably would not tell her the truth about Tony. Then, "How did you know I was living here?"

He lighted a cigaret. "I thought there was a strong possibility that you and Barney had kept in touch with each other. I didn't talk to him but to his secretary. I knew her when I was there, of course. She knew you were here. How is Mrs. Kingsbury?"

"She died at sea on the way to Honolulu." That seemed so long ago now. . . .

He frowned. "I didn't know . . . I thought . . ."

She smiled. "Yes. I'm working here. Barney runs a sort of employment agency for his friends. I'm working for an architect and I don't earn my salary because he has no clients." Her voice was bright.

Rod's voice was heavy. He had not taken his eyes from her.

"You asked me about Tony . . ."

"I had a letter from him: he said he was going on a cruise."

"He's back now and living with friends at the beach." A tense silence followed. Then he said with annoyance, "He's going through a period of renunciation—of you, of course. He has a quirk that he made a noble sacrifice when he didn't follow you to Hawaii. He's such a kid . . ."

"Only three years younger than you," she reminded him. She smiled. "I'm interested only in Tony's well being, Rod. He had problems that were very great to him . . ."

"I think a certain professor's daughter will settle a few of them for him eventually. She came out to California this summer and they were together all the time . . ."

Tony settled, apparently, they looked at each other again. Rod embarrassed. Had their embarrassment of their last meeting only just occurred to him, she wondered. She thought, too, that her ease in greeting him, in speaking, had made their present meeting, up to this point, a friendly one. And though she could have continued speaking with ease throughout luncheon, she knew now that a third person occupied the vacant chair beside them, an invisible Irene. . . .

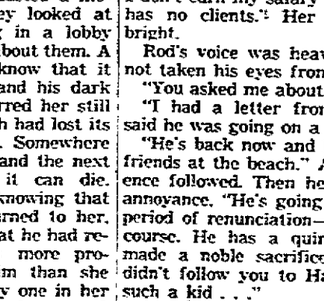
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

NOT IN THE BOOKS

IF YOU lead against No Trump a suit which is so long you expect your partner to have no more than a singleton in it, you will usually fare better by leading some high honor, even if you don't hold honors in sequence. This is especially true when you have the ace and queen, with or without the 10. Leading a fourth-best in this case is likely to present the declarer a trick with the jack which he could not get if you opened one of the top honors. This is not to be found in the general run of bridge books, but it is a principle of play understood by some of the best players.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	1 ♥	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♣	2 ♥	2 ♠	Pass
3 NT

That same bidding with one slight variation, occurred at another table of the duplicate game where this hand was dealt. In that instance, South bid only 2-No Trumps on his third turn, then North 3-Spades and South 3 No Trumps. At this first table South made his contract and later twitted the other declarer for failing.

"What lead did you get?" asked the beaten man. His tormentor answered "The six of hearts." That is the standard lead prescribed by the usual book from such a combination, but it made this contract easy for South. He took the trick with dummy's jack, scored three high spades, lost the club finesse also lost to the heart A, won with the heart K, then ran four tricks in the minors.

At the other table West led the heart Q. With either this lead or the A, it is impossible for South to have more than one stopper in the suit, therefore no earthly way to keep from going down at least two tricks.

Your Week-End Problem.

In match-point duplicate play, would you make an opening bid on any of these hands in fourth position after three passes and, if so, why? Would you open any of them in the same position at rubber bridge?

German Tanks Pierce Weygand's Defenses

French Admit Nazi Advance Now Only 53 Miles From Paris; Strategic Withdrawal Announced.

on the wooded heights along the Bresle river.

With General Weygand himself at the front, the French troops which withdrew to new positions along the Aisne river, on the eastern part of the northern France battle line, carried out his command for strategic withdrawal in perfect order, the spokesman said.

He added that they took up their re-established line only after having fulfilled their mission of harrying the German tanks.

The military reporter said the French estimated the Nazis have about two-thirds of all their available tanks in action at present along the Somme-Aisne front.

The French defenses are holding and isolating the motorized spearhead, he declared, while artillery and infantry on both sides clashed in front line battles.

The combat was renewed this morning with full violence but the French high command was reported "satisfied" with the progress of the fighting.

Meanwhile Paris heard anti-aircraft fire at 11:31 a. m. (5:31 a. m., EST). The firing ceased after a few shots.

Two divisions of German tanks—between 800 and 1,000—were said to have been brought from Abbeville, near the mouth of the Somme, to the central front to join some thousand others already operating in the region south of Peronne, where the Nazis are driving at the Oise river and its two highways leading to Paris.

French .75's continued to blast the rolling fortresses, the spokesman said. He declared that a single battery of these famous guns destroyed 25 tanks yesterday. Published reports of the Nazi losses in tanks have run as high as 700.

Heavy forces of Allied planes supported the artillery and infantry by breaking up troop concentrations, reducing infiltrations and halting supply trains.

At the same time Nazi planes conducted scouting and bombing expeditions against Allied communications. A number of bombs were dropped on railway lines leading west, north and south from the Paris region, the spokesman said.

Further Progress In Somme Drive Claimed By Nazis

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—The German high command today reported "further progress" south of the Somme river and the Aisne-Oise canal and said the Allies also were defeated south of the lower Somme.

British air bases as well as the port of Dover were bombed in air raids on eastern and southern Britain, the communique said.

A German submarine, it said, also sank an Allied auxiliary cruiser of 14,000 tons northwest of Ireland.

Acknowledging only five German losses, the high command said the Allies yesterday lost 71 warplanes—29 shot down in air fights, 25 brought down by anti-aircraft guns and the others destroyed on the ground.

It said the number of Allied prisoners taken at Dunkerque, exit port for Allies withdrawing from the battle of Flanders, had risen to 88,000.

On the Norwegian front, Nazi fliers supporting ground forces near Narvik, Norway's Arctic iron ore port, were said to have set a tank camp afire in an attack on Allied positions and to have scored two hits with heavy bombs on a cruiser.

Following a break-through all along the Somme-Aisne line yesterday, these sources said, the Nazi steamroller is again in motion and blitzkrieg tactics which proved so successful in Poland, Holland and Belgium have been resumed.

Although the German advance was described as proceeding on schedule, there was no official information concerning the points reached, and today's high command report was not expected to make any "premature revelations," it was said.

The high command's policy, informed persons added, was intended to "avoid giving the enemy a clearer picture of the situation."

Authorized sources said, however, that three days of continuous assaults had proved France's so-called Weygand line is "unstable," and the German war machine was reported attacking simultaneously at four points in an effort to smash stubborn French resistance.

Adolf Hitler's own newspaper, Volkischer Beobachter, said the drives were developing in the regions of Abbeville, Amiens, Peronne and the Oise-Ainse canal. The thrust southward from Abbeville was aimed at the present west coast port of Le Havre, while the other three pointed directly at Paris.

The on-rushing German units, strongly supported by the dreaded "Stukas" (dive bombers), were said to be encountering massed French forces everywhere along the improvised Weygand defense positions.

However, informed persons said, the French positions no longer constitute a major obstacle.

Eight English Counties Raided By German Bombers

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Aerial blows, struck and received, form Britain's share of warfare while new land divisions are being organized and equipped for the battle in France.

For the third successive night, German air raiders carried the war into the south and east cost countries of England in a series of attacks marked by machine-gunning of houses at a southeast port town.

A communique of the air ministry and the ministry of home security said "some bombs were dropped but little material damage was done and no casualties have been reported."

One Nazi bomber crashed and burned in East Suffox. One member of its crew was reported killed, another died later and one captured.

While anti-aircraft units blazed away at the raiders, the Royal Air Force bore the weight of British support for her French ally.

The air ministry said last night that R. A. F. bombers ranged the full length of the German lines and behind the lines in northern France, setting fires at a large oil refinery south of Hamburg, smashing one end of a main railway tunnel south of Aachen and slashing at German-held airdromes, rail lines, marching troops and motorized columns.

Air raid alarms echoed last night in eight English coastal counties—Cambridge, Norfolk, Essex, Suffolk, Kent, Northumberland, Durham and Yorkshire.

The machine-gunning plane which struck at the unidentified coast town did not drop bombs but circled repeatedly at a low altitude.

DIES AT WORK

Crestline Man Succumbs While Washing Automobile.

CRESTLINE—Harry Thomas, 55, West Bucyrus street, dropped dead at 9 a. m. today at Crestline garage, where he was washing an automobile. Acting coroner, Dr. O. M. Delaney, said death was due to a heart attack.

He came to Crestline four years ago. There are no known survivors. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

REPORT ITALY TO ENTER WAR WITHIN WEEK

Action Predicted Thursday or Friday Night Followed By Duce's Announcement.

and the departure of troops for the south strengthened belief that the nation may soon enter the war on the side of Germany.

An official announcement said that air mail service between Rome and Rio De Janeiro, which has been on a weekly basis, has been reduced to one round trip monthly.

Air line service to Haifa, Bagdad and Bassora also was suspended, and officials said that planes will fly only as far as Rhodes until further notice.

The Roma-Sardinia Steamship Line also suspended service.

Amid emotional farewells from their families, a train load of soldiers, recalled to duty, left Rome for Naples this morning.

The troops departed for the south less than 24 hours after the appointment of 74-year-old Marshal Emilio Debono to command the "south army group." Military circles interpreted the designation as meaning his command would include the one Italian army which has been stationed in the south and the two which are in Libya.

Some Fascists have said one of Italy's first moves if she enters the present war would be to strike at Egypt and the Suez canal from Libya.

While Fascist authorities ignored the olive branch tendered by French Premier Paul Reynaud in his speech Wednesday night and said it had come "too late," there were other indications that Premier Mussolini will not delay for long his announcement of Italian entry into the European conflict.

(Authorized sources in Berlin said Italy's leading foreign affairs commentary, Relazioni Internazionali, would clarify Italy's position in an article appearing today.)

In the midst of reports from abroad that Italian merchant ships in foreign waters had been ordered to neutral ports and that scheduled sailings had been canceled, a well-informed source said the Italian liner Rex would not sail for New York June 12, although the line still was taking reservations.

New armament grants went to the air force, which was given $380,000,000 for expansion in the next three years, and to the navy, which got $80,000,000 for sea and shore armament.

Rumor Mussolini to Speak Monday.

BERN, Switzerland—(AP)—Fascist Italian sources in Switzerland reported today Premier Mussolini would make a speech "offering peace or declaring war," probably on Monday.

A peace offer, they said, was the strongest possibility, but they suggested it would be tantamount to an ultimatum to the Allies, with only a few days allowed for considering it.

The same date for a Mussolini speech was set as a "rumor" by the pro-Italian news agency Telepress, which has headquarters in Geneva and is used as a vehicle for Fascist opinion abroad.

A Telepress morning bulletin reported that former Premier Pierre Laval had been left out of Premier Paul Reynaud's new French cabinet so that he would be free to travel to Rome.

The agency said it was "rumored" that Laval would arrive in Rome today.

The Italian sources indicated that Mussolini's offer would be based mainly on "a separate peace" with France or "continued non-belligerency" in exchange for French satisfaction of certain Italian territorial demands.

Egyptian Children Sent to Interior.

ALEXANDRIA — (AP) — The Egyptian government today suddenly sent 6,000 children and aged men and women from Alexandria to the interior as all Italian ships in the Mediterranean were reported to have received orders to return immediately to Italy.

A widespread war move in the Mediterranean was believed imminent.

Soldiers and police visited hundreds of homes here shortly after dawn and ordered an immediate evacuation by special trains.

Italian shipping agents announced the orders for all their ships to go back to Italy. At the same time, the steamship companies refused to accept further bookings for passage to Italy.

PLAY STUNT KILLS BOY

CLEVELAND—(INS)—The playful practice of walking on an empty gasoline tank had proven fatal today for Marlon Patton, 14. The boy was crushed between two of the tanks when he fell off one of them while trying to roll it by walking on top of it.

Brothers Meet First Time In 37 Years

Three brothers who were together yesterday for the first time in 37 years, found it very easy to "smile for the camera," for they had only to look at each other to show their happiness on the occasion. At the left is Edward Eilenfield, San Diego, Cal., who returned to Mansfield Friday after an absence of 37 years; in the center is August Eilenfield, city fireman; and at the right is the older brother, William.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Golf's coyote critics yowled and yapped at Jimmy Demaret today for his withdrawal from the National Open championship after a bad first round and a worse second.

* * *

They pointed out that one of the open's most cherished traditions is that a man must play through, no matter how badly he is hitting the ball. They intimated that he had let down those who had bet on him to win golf's No. 1 affair.

Shortly after he had failed to sign his card after a second round of 81, I relayed this criticism to Demaret. He was astraddle the bench in front of his locker in the Canterbury club, a cold drink in his hands and a grin on his face.

"Is that the way some people feel?" he asked. "Well, that's too bad. You tell 'em this for me, will ya? In the first place, I paid my own way to the tournament. Bought by own ticket, made my own pullman reservation, bought my own balls, and hired my own caddy. As for those who bet on me, thats their own business. I didn't ask 'em to, and no one made 'em choose me."

"I want everybody to know this, too. I make my living out of golf, but it is still a game with me. Whenever it becomes work and not fun I'll go into something else And it's no fun when you're hitting the ball the way I was here at Canterbury. I don't know why I didn't hit it any better—just one of those things After all, a golfer isn't a machine. He has bad days and good days just like everybody else.

"Now, I know enough about golf and enough about the men I have to play against to realize when I am playing badly and they are playing well. What was the use of me cluttering up the field and wearing myself out when my first two rounds fere 74-81? I could see that Snead and Hogan and Little and Guldahl and the others were on their games and that I couldn't beat them or even stay close to 'em.

"So why hang around and suffer? Why not go swimming or to the movies or just join the gallery and pull for a few pals to win the thing?"

* * *

As one who sides with Demaret, and who believes that he did the sensible thing, let me point out that his 81 of yesterday, coupled with his 74 of the first round, would have barred him from the final 36 holes anyway. He just beat the scoreboard to the punch.

Radomuis Will Seek Initial Mound Victory

Righthander Is Manager Stover's Selection to Halt Green Sox In 9 O'Clock Contest.

MANAGER DEWEY STOVER will send Alex Radomuis to the mound at 9 p. m. tonight at the Fairground to face the Fremont Green Sox as the Mansfield Braves seek to hop back on the winning side of the ledger after a day's idleness.

The Braves, who have won eight of their last 10 contests, were scheduled to tackle the Green Sox at Fremont, but wet grounds forced postponement of the tussle.

Radomuis, who was sent to the Braves' wigwam from Fargo-Moorhead, N. D., of the Northern league, is a promising prospect and Stover hopes the lad will win the fourth berth on the Mansfield club's pitching staff.

Mansfield will be trying to maintain its third-place berth from the threatening Tiffin Mudhens, who last night handed Fostoria a twin defeat to climb within two games of the third spot.

Possessing the best hitting attack in the league, the Braves can see only one reason why they are not at the top of the Ohio State league standings—weakness of the hurling corps.

George Laurila, Bob Arnold and Tony Scotti today look like the members most likely to finish the season with the Braves, but Stover wants another starter.

There is a chance that "Odie" Van Nostrand, rookie southpaw, may remain with the Braves. He is wild, but showed plenty of stuff in beating Lima in his first start.

* * *

Tonight's setto at the Fairground will mark the last home appearance of the Braves until Tuesday when they meet the Mudhens under the floodlights at 8:30 p. m. Mansfield will be on the road Sunday and Monday.

* * *

The Tiffin-Fostoria doubleheader was the only action in the league last night. Tiffin won, 10 to 9, and 7 to 5. The Lima-Findlay tilt was called because of wet grounds.

CANTON — (AP) — Youngstown moved back into second place in the Mid-Atlantic league today after knocking off league-leading Canton, 12 to 2, and ending a four-game winning streak for the Terriers.

* * *

Charleston dropped to third place in the standingss on a 9 to 7 loss to Dayton.

Akron moved out of the cellar by trouncing Portsmouth, 16 to 6.

Today's schedule: Dayton at Charleston. Portsmouth at Akron, Youngstown at Canton.

Columbus Man Cops Shoot

Carl Maust Scores 93 to Annex Doubles Crown.

VANDALIA — (AP) — One new championship was won and another assured as scattergun artists entered their second day of competition in the state trapshooting tournament here. Class matches and the hunters' award featured today's matches.

Karl Maust of Columbus scored 93 to annex the doubles crown from Joe Heistand of Hillsboro, last year's champion, who chalked up a 92.

Phil Miller of French Lick, Ind., broke 95 clays but was not a native Ohioan and three others who tied the 93 mark were either out of state contestants or professionals.

The 100 target handicap race was halted by rain yesterday but Roy Izor of Farmersville, defending titleholder, shot himself out of the race.

Bimelech to Try Again

Stands to Win $47,000 at Belmont Park.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Bim-Bum-Bim Bimelech, once upon a time known in a fairy tale of the turf as the "greatest horse since Man o' War," has a chance again today to be either very good or just another galloper.

* * *

He's top choice in the 72nd running of the mile-and-a-half Belmont Stakes, third of the "triple crown" jewels for three-year-olds. Six others have elected to go with him in the grind, including the two who exploded the "Bimelech bubble" earlier this spring—Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Gallahadion in the Kentucky Derby and Mrs. Payne Whitney's Corydon in the Withers mile.

* * *

He can collect some $47,000, provided of course he wins and that all seven entries go to the post. A crowd of about 30,000 is expected to see Belmont park's getaway day program.

$100 OFFERED

A coon chase, featuring dogs for throughout Ohio and Michigan, will get under way Sunday at the Rod Hale farm, five miles east of Mansfield, on route 42. Cash prizes totalling $100 will be given to the winners.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Stopping the victory dance of the Dodgers, which has lasted through six straight triumphs and enabled the Flatbush gang to grab the league lead from the Reds, was the job assigned to big Paul Derringer today.

The Cincinnati hurler opposed Freddie Fitzsimmons, against whom the Reds hoped to do better than in their first brush of a four-game series which gave Brooklyn a 4-2 edge and the top position, by a few percentage points.

The Reds' defeat yesterday blasted Bucky Walters' hopes of tying Rube Marquard's all-time record of 19 straight victories, after the Cincinnati hurler had won nine in a row.

Hugh Casey got credit for the triumph, and vengeance against the Reds for batting him from the box May 1 when the Cincinnati club stopped Brooklyn after the Dodgers had won their first nine games.

Casey took over for Tot Pressnell in the sixth and allowed only two hits in finishing. Pressnell only gave up four.

Meantime, the long-range clubs of Dolph Camilli and Joe Vosmik scored for the Dodgers. Vosmik got a homer in the fourth good for two runs and Camilli clouted his round trip during overtime in the 11th with a man on.

* * *

Harry Craft homered for Cincinnati in the fifth and the Reds counted their other marker with a triple by Lonnie Frey who crossed the plate on an infield out.

Al Milnar Gets Bid to Stave Off Yankee Drive

NEW YORK — (AP) — On Al Milnar, one of the three strong men of the Cleveland Indians' pitching staff, fell today the burden of giving the tribe a chance to come off first in its three-game series with the champion New York Yankees.

* * *

But it's a task he relishes, because he opposes a pitcher who helped hand him his only defeat of the season—Marius Rosso, the Yanks' new left-handed ace. Milnar seeks his eighth victory.

Bob Feller's failure to hold men on bases cost the Indians the opener of the crucial series and a virtual tie for first place in the league. Scoring two runs in the ninth inning, the Yanks humbled Cleveland 5 to 4.

The fault wasn't with Feller's fireball, but in his carelessness with men on base. He allowed George Selkirk to steal home in the second and Joe Gordon to steal second in the ninth, Gordon then scoring the tying run on a single. The Yankees' two last-inning runs were made on four singles.

Feller gave up three runs in the first two frames, then held the champs to two hits and one run until the ninth.

The defeat was Feller's third against eight victories, and snapped his six-game winning streak.

* * *

The Indians collected only five hits off Marvin Breuer and Bump Hadley, one of them being Hal Trosky's 14th home run with the bases empty.

Golf Stars Mob Payoff Window In Open Windup

Twenty-One of Game's Finest Stars Within Six-Stroke Leadership Bracket.

By EARL HILLIGAN

CLEVELAND—(AP)—They "mobbed" the payoff window today in the drama of pressure, failure and victory that is golf's biggest gamble—the National Open championship.

Promising what may be the greatest finish in the history of a tournament well marked by heartbreak and disappointment to favorites and the sudden rush of longshots to fame, 21 of the game's finest stars were within a six-stroke leadership bracket as the final 36-hole stretch drive started at Canterbury course.

Deadlocked for the 36-hole lead at 141 strokes were two top power players, "Slamming Sam" Snead and Lawson Little; and one of golf's style artists, suave Horton Smith, one-time "Joplin Ghost" and boy wonder of the sport.

Snead turned in a two over par card of 39-35—74 yesterday to add to his Thursday round of 67, five under regulation figures.

Canterbury's tricky winds, dormant two days, roared over the fairways during a rain squall which sent Sam reeling at the sixth hole. He took one over par there and three over for the out nine. Coming home, he picked up three storkes on six holes, then ran into trouble at the short 17th going two over par.

The broad-shouldered Little, working on an opening 72, came in with a three under par card of 36-33—69, playing the kind of golf which won him the British and American amateur titles in 1934 and 1935.

Smith, tall Chicago professional, had nines of 36-36 to match par as against his first round 69. On the 18th, Smith missed by an inch a nine-foot putt which would have given him the lead and a slight edge toward capturing a title neither he, Snead or Little ever has won.

Frank Walsh, veteran Rumson, N. J., professional, was just a stroke off the pace at 142, going around yesterday in 69. Sam Parks, jr., Pittsburgh, and Ben Hogan, Dublin, Tex., were bracketed at 143. Parks, 1935 winner, had a second round 74, Hogan a 73.

Ralph Guldahl, two-time open champion, was at 144 and in position to turn loose the finishes which saw him win in 1937 and 1938. Also in the 144 division were Len Dodson, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison and Vic Ghezzi.

* * *

Former Champion Gene Sarazen had a 145, along with Jock Hutchison, jr., Lloyd Mangrum and Craig Wood. Defending Champion Byron Nelson, whose 37-37—74 yesterday gave him a 146 total, had the company of Jim Foulis, Henry Picard, PGA titlist, Harold McSpaden, Leland Gibson, Ed Oliver and Andrew Gibson.

COMMISSIONER LANDIS RULES AGAINST BRYANT

CHICAGO — (AP) — Clay Bryant from Zanesville, O., whose conferences with Commissioner K. M. Landis failed to alter his suspension without pay by the Chicago Cubs, had a third meeting ahead of him today—with owner P. K. Wrigley.

The get-together was arranged yesterday after Landis ruled the Chicago club was "within it's rights in suspending the player until he gets into condition to pitch."

DIZZY DEAN SIGNS WITH TULSA IN TEXAS LEAGUE

TULSA — (INS) — Pitcher Dizzy Dean today was under contract to do some hurling for the Tulsa Oilers in the Texas league—and he signed the contract without quibbling over terms.

"I'm still in a pretty good league," he commented after signing.

PROGRAM PLANNED

Officials of the Night Hawks Motorcycle club and the Norwalk Keller Indians baseball team are planning to stage a motorcycle race and night baseball game at Norwalk Sunday. The race and ball game was to have been played Decoration day but both events were called off because of rain.

Set Fast Pace In Association

Former Major Loop Hurlers Hitting Stride.

A couple of major league craftsmen—Bill Swift and Johnny Whitehead—apparently have decided to set a fast pace for each other in their current workshop, the American association.

Whitehead, former Chicago White Sox hurler and more recently with the St. Louis Browns, turned in a smart four-hitter Thursday to give Toledo a 2 to 1 decision over St. Paul.

* * *

Last night, Bill Swift, late of the Pittsburg Pirates, returned in kind for the Saints and went Whitehead two hits better in blanking the Mud Hens, 6 to 0.

* * *

Another fine pitching performance, a six-hitter by Bob Logan, enabled Indianapolis to whip the league leading Kansas City Blues, 5 to 1 and snap a six game losing streak.

* * *

In the only other game, Louisville blew a four run lead and lost to Milwaukee, 5 to 4.

Dodds Places 4th In Two-Mile Event

MILWAUKEE — (AP) — Jack Sulzman and Lester Eisenhart of Ohio State university captured the 440 and 880-yard runs, respectively, in the Central Collegiate track carnival here last night, and Gilbert Dodds, Ashland, O., college distance runner, placed fourth in the two mile event.

* * *

Sulzman's time was 48.8 seconds, while Eisenhart won the 880 in 8 minute 56.6 seconds.

Marquette won its fourth Central championship since the competition started in 1926.

"Woods and Waters"

By YUNCKER BROS.

Just one more week until bass season opens (June 16), and it's high time to get the things you'll need for the start-off. It is both easy and economical to get equipped at Yuncker's, for here you can choose from the largest stocks of fine fishing tackle to be found in North Central Ohio.

* * *

Everyone is aware of the migrations of certain birds and animals, but many do not know that trees migrate, too. Paleontologists have irrevocable proof that some of the more common species of trees, shrubs and plants have migrated thousands of miles to new localities, with more favorable growing conditions. These shifts or movements were gradual, but are, nevertheless, migrations.

* * *

A stupendous animal spectacle is the "La Foule" (the strong) of the caribou. The close-packed migrating herd, numbering in the millions, has been known to take six days and nights to pass a given point.

* * *

Oil and gas should always be mixed in a separate container, never in the gas tank. If for some reason the mixture in the tank is inaccurate, do not attempt to fix things by adding more oil to correct a mixture with too much oil. An improper amount of oil not thoroughly mixed is almost sure to result from such a procedure.

* * *

Vary the speed of your retrieve when casting plugs or spoons for black bass until they start hitting. No one knows why, but today they seem to like a fast moving bait—tomorrow they may refuse to touch anything but a slow-moving bait.

If your old minnow bucket has seen a lot of service and looks about ready for "a pension", look over the complete selection at Yuncker's next time you're down this way. You'll see many new types, including self-aerating buckets, and in a wide price range that will fit every fisherman's budget.

* * *

When you get out in the woods, try to think of the roling, loose-kneed gait that gets you over the ground with the least fatigue. Instead of the banging heel-first march of the sidewalks, imagine that you reach for the ground with your feet, much as you reach for things with your hands. Flat footed rather than heel and toe gives you better balance, because weight is distributed, and in time you gain accuracy that reduces stumbling.

* * *

Wire leaders should always be used when fishing for northern pike or muskellunge. Both fish will quickly cut a gut leader, if it is drawn across their teeth.

Blades' Crackup Caused by The Dodgers, Writer Claims

By JUDSON BAILEY
(AP Sports Writer)

RAY BLADES is out and the Brooklyn Dodgers are in.

The responsibility for the major leagues' first managerial crackup of 1940 should be spread in a lot of directions, but the Dodgers will have to shoulder their share of the blame, because they are doing everything the St. Louis Cardinals were supposed to do this season.

It was more than a coincidence that yesterday as the Cards fired Blades and hired Billy Southworth, the indomitable Dodgers drove back into first place in the National league with a 4-2 eleven-innnig conquest of the Cincinnati Reds.

This was the sixth straight in a new winning streak for Brooklyn and the two immediately preceding triumphs had come at the expense of the Cardinals. One of them, 10-1 Tuesday night, probably caused Sam Breadon to decide to swap managers in St. Louis.

The Dodgers gave a stirring show at Cincinnati yesterday, winning on a two-run homer by Dolph Camilli in the eleventh and stopping Bucky Walters' undefeated streak at nine games.

The Cardinals, under the temporary handling of Coach Mike Gonzales, squeezed past the New York Giants 3-2, with the help of five double plays, and advanced into fifth place.

Another swap in positions in yesterday's general upheaval in the National league saw the Pittsburgh Pirates finally get out of the cellar and the Boston Bees drop in. The Pirates pounded out 18 hits to crush the Phillies 10-4. The Chicago Cubs beat the Bees 5-3 with Bill Nicholson hitting his third homer in two days and Claude Passeau pitching eight-hit ball.

The New York Yankees handed Cleveland and Bob Feller a 5-4 beating, bunching four singles for two runs in the ninth. The Tribe was held to five hits, one of them Hal Trosky's 14th home run.

Cleveland's setback preserved the Boston Red Sox' half game lead in the American league although Hal Newhouser baffled the Bostons with seven-hit pitching that enabled the Detroit Tigers to win 7-1.

* * *

The Washington Senators edged out the Chicago White Sox 3-2 and squeezed past the same club into fifth place in the standings.

Rookie Al Brancato took care of the Philadelphia Athletics, beating the St. Louis Browns 3-2 by driving in all the A's runs on a triple, a double and a single; Nelson Potter kept six hits scattered.

PAM—"I'm Doing Fine!" By A. W. Brewerton

OH, DON'T WORRY ABOUT ME, COLONEL CAREY, I'M DOING FINE!— BE UP AND ABOUT IN A DAY OR TWO, SOON AS THEY TAKE THIS BANDAGE OFF!— MY HEAD HAS ABOUT STOPPED ACHING, TOO!—Y'KNOW I WAS VERY LUCKY — NOT GETTING HURT ANY MORE!— JUST A BAD BUMP ON THE HEAD THAT KNOCKED ME SILLY—AND THEY WANT TO BE CAREFUL ABOUT MY EYES!
6-8
Y'SEE, I WAS WEDGED IN BETWEEN TWO BIG MEN IN THE CAR! THAT PREVENTED MY BEING HURT BADLY, I GUESS!— —THEY WERE BOTH INJURED, TERRIBLY!
THEY DESERVED IT, THE FIENDS!
I'M SO GLAD THE WIDOW'S PROPERTY WAS SAVED, COLONEL— SHE'S A SWEET LADY!
I THINK THEY'LL TEST PAM'S EYESIGHT MONDAY OR TUESDAY, CLARE!
AND SHE— DOESN'T SUSPECT AT ALL, DOES SHE, DAVID?
NO, I'M SURE SHE DOESN'T
OF COURSE SHE KNOWS SHE WAS SORT OF BLINDED AT THE TIME — BUT SHE WAS SO STUNNED AND DAZED, I DON'T THINK SHE RECALLS THAT, NOW!
POOR PAM! WHAT A TERRIFIC SHOCK— IF SHE IS BLIND!

LIGHT BUYING CONTINUES IN MARKET TODAY

But Many Traders Await More Definite News of German Drive in France.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Light buying continued in the stock market today although many traders stood aside to await more definite news of the German drive in northern France.

Boardrooms found considerable encouragement in reports from steel centers indicating some mills are now operating at or near capacity while production in others is at a peak level for several years. Forecasts were that output next week would jump to better than 70 per cent at Youngstown.

Not so pleasing was the federal reserve summary disclosing a 9 per cent drop in the country's department store sales during the week ended June 1 compared with the like week a year ago.

'BABY BROTHER' BACK IN CITY

Joins Mansfield Relatives After Separation Lasting For 37 Years.

his family and although he hadn't corresponded with them for years and didn't know their addresses, he and his wife started for Mansfield by motor, and when they arrived went to police station and asked aid in locating one of his brothers.

Edward's only sister, Mrs. Augusta Schara, 62, lives in Buffalo. He has not seen her since he was nine years old. She left home to marry and did not return before he left to join the navy. Brother and sister will be reunited in Buffalo after 46 years. Edward and his wife will remain in Buffalo for three weeks and then return to Mansfield for a visit.

Yesterday the three brothers held a reunion at a dinner given at the August Eilenfield home.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, June 9.

SUNDAY'S horoscope is for a fairly propitious state of affairs, with probably a rather unusual slant to affairs involving writings, contracts or intellectual interests. Unless engagements are grounded on spiritual or social values it is indicated that these may be unwelcome entanglements or disappointments. Prudence, discretion and restraints on extravagance and indulgence are urged.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of favorable activity, with probably peculiar or unexpected developments involving papers, contracts, writings or ideas. Circumspect and alert conduct in all relations are recommended, with self-restraint in matters suggesting extravagance or indulgence, with an unwarranted outlay of funds. Avoid mean or tricky complications.

A child born on this day may have some strange ideas or thoughtful slants, with some profound but vague theories. It may be friendly, indulgent and extravagant, with over-ambitious tendencies.

For Monday, June 10.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a contradictory state of affairs. Although there may be much activity and enterprise, yet stubborn obstacles or a determined resistance to progress are also shown. This may be owing to depressed physical or mental conditions or other untoward events. There may be excitable, emotional or social relations, with certain highly stimulated urges.

Those whose birthday it is may have a fairly progressive year, with definite benefits, especially accruing from superiors or employers. But safeguard the health, which may be a handicap or impediment. There may be depression or sorrow and also stresses or excitement of emotional character. Also there may be fine flashes of an inventive or dramatic trend.

A child born on this day may have an active as well as profound and logical mentality, with energy, creative ability and ambition. And despite ability and ambition. And despite some frustration, it should reap success and position, with preferment from superiors.
